Castle Blocks Woolley's Plan

Kills Prohibition Resolution Before American Board Meeting

Woolley is still at work trying to saddle Hawaii with prohibition. But V. R. Castle was close on Woolley's tail, and killed a Woolley prohibition resolution that was presented at the annual meeting of the American Board of Missions.

Mr. Castle went East to attend the meeting of the board in Boston, and when he arrived on the scene of action was somewhat surprised to find Woolley there with a long resolution on prohibition for Hawaii.

Woolley's proposition was to have the American Board of Missions at its annual meeting pass this resolution, which called on Congress to enact a prohibition law for the islands, despite the adverse declaration of the people through the plebiscite.

Mr. Castle immediately began war on Woolley. He was in a very good position to fight the scheme, as he had been appointed a member of the business committee to which the Woolley resolution was referred.

When this resolution came up in the committee, Mr. Castle found the

PLAN ON FOOT TO INCREASE REGULAR ARMY STRENGTH AND PROVIDE HAWAIIAN DEFENSES

Military defense of Hawaii is just now taking up so much attention at the war and navy departments that a movement is on foot to increase the present authorized strength of the mobile army in order to provide more troops to be sent to the Territory.

Army officers now in the Territory have heard of this movement, with the additional information that a bill is to be drafted and presented to Congress, providing for an increase in the regular troops.

In this connection a San Francisco paper publishes the following dispatch from its Washington correspondent:

"The recent order of the war department making the Hawaiian islands a military district, with a brigadier general in command, but still continuing as part of the department of California, is probably the forerunner of materially increasing the number of troops of the mobile army, as well as of the coast artillery corps stationed there, and the organization of Hawaii into a separate military department.

DEMOCRATIC SECRET CLUBS DISBANDING AS RESULT OF REVELATIONS OF TRICKERY

Exposed by the Bulletin day after day by the publishing of facts and figures that can not be successfully denied, the Democratic secret political clubs are fast going to pieces in Honolulu.

Meetings of the clubs in many precincts have been called for the past two evenings, with but a small percentage of the membership present, and the former Democratic workers are deserting the secret societies literally by the score.

Since the Bulletin began its revelations of the methods by which the Democrats have attempted to control city and county government, the Democratic managers have practically dropped their connection with the secret societies. In some cases this immediately resulted in a disbandment of the societies; in others they tried to hold together, but the members would not stick.

Charles A. Cottrell, the negro politician of Toledo, Ohio, whose appointment as collector of internal revenue in this city was reported yesterday as in contemplation, will not be sent to Honolulu. A. L. C. Atkinson, chairman of the Republican territorial central committee, telegraphed to former Governor George R. Carter, in New York, to take up the protest, and the ex-governor did not delay. He took a train for Washington and the matter was held before President Taft at once. The result is contained in the following cablegram which has been received by Chairman Atkinson:

"Washington, D. C.—Atkinson, Honolulu: President assures me Cottrell will not be sent to Hawaii."

M'CROSSON WILL PRESENT PLAN FOR DITCH

J. T. McCrosson, of the Hawaiian Irrigation Company, will leave the Territory for Washington, D. C., on November 11 to present to Washington authorities his plans for the great Kan ditch, one of the biggest irrigation propositions in the islands.

It is a $3,000,000 job, and in order to float its bonds the company will have to get a fifty-year lease on the property for ditch uses. Under the present organic act, no fifty-year leases can be granted, and an amendment will have to be made to the act before the company can proceed. It is to get authorization for the amendment and put his proposition before the authorities that McCrosson is going to Washington.

PARTY MEETINGS FOR TONIGHT

Republicans of the fourth and fifth districts will unite tonight in a rally at Paoua, in the Punchbowl district one of the final sessions in that district and expected to be attended by the largest crowd of the campaign. The fourth district workers will be out in force, and most of the party speakers and candidates will be present. Paoua has given the Republicans a hearty welcome this campaign and should roll up a good majority.

Democratic meetings for tonight are at Nuuanu and Paoua road and at School and Liliha streets.

Announcement was made from both headquarters today that in case rain continued, the meetings would not be held.

DETAILS DUG UP ON SMUGGLED OPIUM

Alleged Discoveries Connect Former Customs Inspectors Closely.

SUSPECT "DOPE" WAS TAKEN IN SUIT CASES

Price of Drug in Local Market Dropped Following Heavy Importation from Trans-Pacific Liner.

Albert G. Bowers this morning arrived from Maui and immediately went to the office of United States Marshal Hendry and gave himself up before the warrant for his arrest was served.

He was liberated on bonds of $1500, the same amount as in the case of Fred G. Noyes who was arrested yesterday.

Prosecuting officers who are delving into the charges filed against at least two men formerly connected with the staff of local customs inspectors think they have secured much important evidence concerning wholesale importations of opium into the port of Honolulu within the past four months.

With the issuance of warrants for former customs inspectors Fred G. Noyes and A. G. Bowers came a number of stories which allege that with the arrival of the steamship China along about the middle of last July, a number of tins of dope were conveyed to the shore, followed by a similar shipment of the drug taken from another Pacific Mail vessel in September.

With the arrival of Bert Bowers from Maui by the steamer Mauna Kea this morning, United States prosecuting attorney Breckons it is expected will put the former customs inspector through another inquisition.

In connection with the arrest of Noyes and Bowers the story is that during the stay of the liner Mongolia at Honolulu the first part of this month, at least eight suit cases filled with opium in alleged to have been landed between seven o'clock in the evening and midnight.

What is believed to have led the Federal officers to take up the quest for illegal opium importations with renewed vigor is the report that within a space of forty eight hours the selling price of the seductive drug had dropped from seventy to forty five dollars.

It is declared that the slump of opium in Honolulu market followed the last known importation of the dope.

In order to bring about such a fall in the price of the drug it has been estimated that at least one thousand tins of the stuff of which dreams are made must have been brought ashore in the last shipment.

The Federal officers in charge of the prosecution of alleged opium smugglers are unwilling to reveal any details connected with the case in which Messrs. Noyes and Bowers have been connected. They also positively refuse to state whether the investigation that is now going on within the confines of the Judiciary building will continue in ever widening circles until it will have included a number of others within its scope.

Still it is freely hinted that several persons some of whom may be considered as "higher ups" may yet have occasion to impart interesting information to the prosecuting officers.

WILL SERVE OUT SEVERAL MONTHS

No Indictment Is Brought Against Girl Now In Jail.

Alexandra Kudina is still lying in jail awaiting the action of the Federal grand jury, and as that body does not meet again until January, she is due for three months more behind the bars because her case was not brought to the attention of the jury, supposedly, at its session which closed last week.

The girl is a Russian who lived with Phoney Davis for a time, and on her testimony of their life he was proceeded against and is now serving a sentence in prison for violation of the Edmunds Act.

It was on April 4 that the girl was arrested under the same charge as that against Davis, but on her testimony against him she was given her liberty.

For some time she lived in a servant, and from there she was taken before United States Commissioner Judd for a hearing, because she wore a good hat and silk coat, both of which it was brought out after the hearing had closed had been given her by the women in the family where she worked.

On August 27 she was sent to jail again for detention pending the action of the grand jury on the former charge against her, and she is still there, waiting and waiting.

By the time the grand jury meets in January, Alexandra will have served practically six months since she was committed in August, without ever having been tried for the offense charged against her.

Davis is now serving a sentence of six months after being convicted by a jury of the charge against him, and if the girl is brought to trial after the first of the year, her punishment will be considerably more than that of the man who took her to live with him.

When asked this morning why the grand jury had not investigated the case or brought an indictment, Breckons was uncommunicative. He did say, however, that he might let her go without further action.

It is a good guess that the prosecuting attorney forgot all about the girl lying in jail.

Armours Enter Local Field?

Big Chicago Packing Firm After Hawaiian Pineapple Business

That Armour & Co., one of the association has reached an arrangement with the big Chicago firm, is preparing to invade Hawaii, is the news that has reached Honolulu from the Coast, where already the firm has secured more than a foot-hold. Having established itself in California, the great packing house now plans to reach still further afield, and has already in contemplation a scheme for going into the pineapple industry here.

Armour & Co. is primarily a meat-packing house, but it has almost as many side lines as it has branch offices. From Chicago the firm stretches out arms to every big city in the country and has large European connections.

Its excursion into the fruit-packing industry was first made some time ago, when Armour agents secured control of many large orchards in the Middle West. The invasion of the California field is more recent, and was caused by the failure of the big fruit crop in Michigan. With the Michigan crop a disappointment, the firm turned to California.

An agent of the Armours, C. W. Davidson, who was in Honolulu two months ago, has been in California for several weeks, negotiating for the control of the California Fruit Packers' Association, and securing options on many independent plants. It is reported that the California

LYMER TAKES THE OATH OF OFFICE AND SO SETTLES THE QUESTION OF POLICE JUDGE

The taking of the oath of office this morning by W. B. Lymer as district magistrate of Honolulu this morning, upon his return from Maui, settles the matter of who is to sit on the bench in the police court of this city.

In speaking of the statement in the morning paper to the effect that he would accept Lymer's resignation if it should be presented, Chief Justice Hartwell stated that he had no intention of doing anything of the kind.

"This appointment was made after due deliberation," said the chief justice, "and after consultation with

STRAIGHT TICKET TALKS

DAN YOWELL—"I believe it is to the interest of workers on the waterfront to vote the entire Republican ticket straight. I am going to give my heartiest support to the Republican party in this election, although in the past I have been a Democrat. But the Democratic party is against the best interests of us on the docks this year, and that is why I intend to vote straight for Kuhio's ticket."

J. P. MITCHELL—"I believe in the doctrine of the Republican party. With the exception of the time when Robert Wilcox ran for the Delegation, I have always voted for Prince Cupid.

"The Republican party stands for the prosperity of Hawaii and I am going to vote the straight Republican ticket this time."
